

All that Glitters

1. There may be gold beneath your feet,
As you stroll along the street,
Hidden treasures lie below,
Don't move too fast take it slow.

Look for the clues that lie around,
All that glitters can be found.

2. A treasure lost along the way,
Never found until today,
Or in fear lies underground,
A hoard of gold safe and sound.

Look for the clues that lie around,
All that glitters can be found.

*You see a little corner of an object,
You slowly brush the soil away,
Revealing something very very special,
Bringing the past back to life today.*

3. A battleground where many fought,
A riverbank where traders bought,
An ancient ruin or a cave,
Under stones a secret saved.

Look for the clues that lie around,
All that glitters can be found.

*You see another corner of an object,
You slowly brush the soil away,
Revealing something very very special,
Bringing the past back to life today.*

4. But if you cannot find the gold,
You may find pots and pipes of old,
An arrowhead, a coin or two,
A piece of tile is still a clue.

Look for the clues that lie around,
All that glitters can be found,
All that glitters can be found,
All that glitters can be found.
