

6.11.23

Good morning,

I hope everyone had a good weekend. I was here, there and everywhere helping family members to move house so it was certainly busy!

This week we will be turning our attention to our beautiful planet and making contact with government ministers who have the power to bring about meaningful change at the COP 28 Climate Change Conference. We will use our writing lessons to consider the legacy we want for our planet and write letters to ask for action to be taken.

In maths, we will continue our addition and subtraction unit - working on fact families and number facts within 20 to begin with before moving on to related facts ($7-5 = 2$ so $70-50 = 20$ etc).

We begin a new geography unit this week - looking at human and physical geographical features. We will get out and about in the village to do a 'geographical features hunt.' The day we do this will be weather dependant so please ensure children come to school in appropriate footwear and have a coat each day.

Our PE day this week will be Thursday.

Thank you, have a great week.
