

W/C 27/11/23

Hello families,

I hope you are all well and you have enjoyed the weekend. It was lovely to finally have some drier weather.

This week, we begin our learning with a visitor. It's all very exciting. As part of our RE learning, we are exploring Sikhism in Britain today and we have the wonderful Daya joining us. Her sessions are informative and always interactive. I'm hoping we can extend our learning on the three principles of Sikhism – remembering God, honest work and sharing. This fits in perfectly with Article 14 Freedom of thought and religion as well as Article 2 No discrimination of our Rights Respecting Charter.

In Literacy, the class will be publishing their Harry Potter setting descriptions. They have worked incredibly hard to produce writing packed with figurative language. We'll complete our writing on aged paper and display our work in the classroom. All being well, we'll move on to poetry later in the week. In maths, we're working through column addition and subtraction. I have been truly impressed with their recent learning. Our focus this week is subtraction across tens and hundreds.

Thank you for all the wool donations. The gonks are looking great. We'll complete the beards this week and add the noses. These will be for sale, as well as many other handmade decorations, at the St Day Christmas Fayre in Sunday. It opens at 12 at The Vogue Inn. Our PE day is Wednesday. Please can you ensure children are wearing a coat, have a water bottle filled with water and healthy snacks for playtime.

Please visit our class page for our recent learning pictures.

http://www.st-day.cornwall.sch.uk/website/emerald_news/662691

Have a great week,

Mr Hughes